California Arts Standards for Theatre

“I regard the theatre as the greatest of all art forms, the most immediate way in which a human being can share with another the sense of what it is to be a human being.”

—Thornton Wilder (1897–1975), Pulitzer Prize winning American playwright and novelist

The theatre standards are designed to enable students to achieve literacy in theatre. These grade-by-grade standards articulate the most fundamental elements of theatre, delineating a path by which every student can and will achieve proficiency or beyond in this ancient and honorable craft.

What Is Literacy in Theatre?

Developing literacy in theatre means discovering the expressive elements of theatre, knowing the terminology that is used to comprehend theatre, having a clear sense of what theatre embodies, and being able to reflect, critique, and connect personal experience to theatre.

The theatre standards are written with both drama processes and theatre production in mind. While many secondary theatre programs focus on performance and design in staged productions as evidence of a student’s understanding and achievement in the art, ongoing student engagement in theatre without an end product is a valid expression of theatre understanding. These standards address those drama processes as well as traditional theatre. Drama processes encompass envisioned worlds and unscripted activities designed to engage students in a wide range of real and imagined issues; theatre includes the broader and more traditional conventions of the craft developed over the centuries—scripted plays, acting, public performance, and technical theatre elements.

To address both process and product in theatre, the third grade through high school standards of Proficient, Advanced, and Accomplished often include the term “drama/theatre” to clarify the distinct yet companion parts of theatre education. The pre-K through second grade standards, acknowledging the early childhood need for supervision and unfettered play, use the phrases “dramatic play” or a “guided drama experience.”

The four artistic processes addressed separately in the theatre standards (creating, performing, responding, and connecting) are envisioned to occur simultaneously in the actual practice of theatre. The theatre student makes a character, scene, or story—real or imagined—come alive (creating), shares it with others (performing), analyzes and evaluates the product (responding), and connects the experience to all other contexts of meaning or knowledge (connecting). As a result, aspects of multiple standards can be combined within a learning activity: students can learn a skill, apply it to a scene, make creative decisions while in rehearsal, think critically about their ideas, and relate their ideas to other experiences, contexts, and meanings.
